TELL OF WEDDING TWO YEARS LATER

Miss Lottie Culp, of Gettysburg, Married in Wilmington in September 1913, just now informs her Parents and Other Relatives.

The marriage of Miss Lottie V. Culp, of Gettysburg, and Roy Corbin, of Boston, which occurred in Wilmington, Delaware, on September 13, 1913, was announced here to-day by Mr. and Mrs. James W. Culp, of South Washington street, parents of Mrs. Corbin. The news of the wedding will be a surprise to the many friends of both Mr. and Mrs. Corbin.

Mr. Corbin was a resident of Gettysburg for several months during the construction of the Federal Building. He is an expert marble worker and was in the employ of the sub-contractor having charge of the stone work at the new building. It was during his residence here that he met Miss Culp and their trip to Wilmington for the wedding occurred while he was employed in Gettysburg. For the past eighteen months Mrs. Corbin has been living in Baltimore and not even her parents knew anything at all of her being married until they received a letter from her on Friday telling when and where the wedding took place. Three weeks ago Mrs. Corbin was here for the funeral of her grandmother, Mrs. John Culp, and at that time she intimated to a sister that she was married but the first word Mr. and Mrs. Culp had of it was in the letter on Friday.

Before her marriage she was a tailoress in the employ of John W. Brehm and for a time, after she went to Baltimore, she was engaged in this same occupation.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Corbin in Baltimore is at 315 North Green street.

CRUELLY BEAT HIS STEP-SON

And Resident of Near East Berlin Pays Fine. Little Lad Taken away from Home and Placed in Hands of Proper Parties.

An attempt by Mrs. William Chronister, of near East Berlin, to disparage evidence given that her husband, William Chronister, had cruelly treated his little seven year old step-son, Bernard Kennedy, proved unsuccessful.

Neighbors testified that Chronister had, on more than one occasion, brutally beaten the little fellow in such a manner as to leave scars upon his body. Chronister was given the minimum fine of $10 for the offense and the child was turned over to the custody of the York Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

That she had been untruthful to neighbors prior to the time information was brought against Chronister, was the declaration of Mrs. Chronister under oath. She said that "she had been told to make things blacker than they were."

Although Constable J. A. Harbold, who made the arrest, and other persons, who reside in the immediate neighborhood of the Chronisters, stated under oath that they had at different times seen the defendant ill-treat little Bernard, the woman was steadfast in her declaration that she knew nothing of it, except that the boy was beaten only when he deserved it.

Scars on the little fellow's head and body were shown which he affirmed were the result of "pop's" mistreatment.

The little boy throughout the hearing clung close to Miss Edith Kain, an attaché of the Christian home, in whose custody he had been placed. His answers to the questions were direct as he explained how his step-father had cruelly used him.

Chronister denied the charges on the witness stand, but paid his fine and suffered his step-child to be taken from his custody.

GOOD MARKET

Fruit and Fresh Vegetables in Great Abundance.

Thirty four truckers brought their produce to the curb market this morning. The number of buyers was large and most of the things were quickly sold. Strawberries were very plentiful and sold well at three boxes for 25 cents. Cherries sold for ten cents a box and one trucker disposed of four bushels at this price. Peas brought 40 cents a peck. It is said that peas will be very plentiful on the market next week. The usual assortment of other good things appeared this morning.

GUIDES GIVE VIEWS

Would License Guides who Pass Commission Tests.

The public hearing given by the ordinance committee of town council to the guides and garage owners, relative to the soliciting of trade, was held in the engine house Friday evening. A suggestion that only those guides be licensed by the town who were first licensed by the National Park Commission met with general approval, and the general opinion seemed to favor restricting all to the curb line. The ordinance committee will present an ordinance in conformity with these suggestions.

FORM NEW FRUIT COMPANY HERE

Adams County Orchardists Ask Charter. Would Combine to Pack and Market their Apples. Other Plans now in View.

For the purpose of establishing a central packing station and marketing their fruit as one organization, a number of prominent fruit growers in the apple belt have formed a company to be known as the Adams County Fruit Packing and Distributing Company.

Ground has been purchased at Biglerville adjoining the cold storage plant and a building will be erected there for the work of the new concern. It is the plan to do away with individual packing and to have this central station for that work. The building committee will have as its chairman D. N. Minnick who will select his own assistants. The size and character of the structure has not yet been determined. Temporary officers of the new company are F. E. Griest, president; W. L. Minnick, secretary; U. S. Klinefelter, treasurer.

Application has been made for a charter by the following well known fruit men: Eli P. Garretson, W. W. Boyer, R. H. Lupp, C. E. Raffensperger, A. I. Weidner, Edward H. Sachs, D. A. Washinger, U. S. Klinefelter, J. W. Prickett, Anthony Dearth, A. W. Griest, Frederick E. Griest, D. N. Minnick and W. L. Minnick.

In their application for a charter the men state that the character and object of the company is the buying, packing, selling and distributing of fruit, and in connection therewith manufacturing, buying and selling fruit packages, and orchard supplies.

It was stated this morning by one of the incorporators that the matter of manufacturing fruit packages is considered but not yet definitely planned.

Says Hanover and Gettysburg are in it with the Rest.

"The fans of the circuit must not get it into their nogginns that Hanover and Gettysburg are easy," says the Martinsburg Journal which continues, "They have been putting up good ball right along, despite the fact that they have been getting bumped. Both teams have inherent strength, and with a little patching up will make real contenders. People down in this end of the circuit like the Hanover and Gettysburg lads, and they realize that they have been in a ball game every time those teams play here."

NEW BILL WAS SUPPORTED HERE

County Threshermen Favored New Measure to which Governor Brumbaugh Affixed his Signature on Friday. Its Provisions.

The Adams County Threshermen's Association was one of the backers of a bill signed by Governor Brumbaugh Friday. It provides for the repeal of that section of the automobile law of 1913 which imposes certain restrictions on traction engines in the use of the public highways and provides substitute regulations governing in a more equitable way the operation of traction engines.

The bill was drafted and endorsed at a convention of threshermen and farmers held in the state capital last spring and introduced as representing the embodiment of the wishes of both the traction engine men and the agricultural interests of the state. It passed both branches of the legislature, although in the senate there was some opposition to the measure.

The bill divides traction engines into two classes, the first being machines used for agricultural, road making and hauling machinery, and the second machines used for hauling freight. They must be licensed by the state highway department, a special class being made for manufacturers and dealers. The fees are to be $5 for first class and $20 for second class, trailers less than 10,000 pounds weight being licensed at $3 and those between 10,000 and 24,000 pounds at $5. Dealers will pay $10.

Engines of the first class may not exceed 28,000 pounds in weight and of the second class not exceed 32,000 pounds. Drivers must also be licensed. The state highway commissioner is given authority to enforce the act.

THAT AIRSHIP STORY

Expect Seventy Five to Compete for the Prizes.

The story of the airship fleet coming over Gettysburg this summer, sent out for publication this week, is apparently backed by facts. The official publication of the Lincoln Highway Association says:

"Prizes aggregating $20,200 have already been offered and tentative offers indicate that before the flight is completely arranged the prizes will total $50,000. That these prizes will induce the most prominent aviators of the country to participate in the contest is certain, already thirty-two applications have been filed and seventy five are expected before the competition starts. The prizes are offered in sections for the best daily flights. Ten hours will constitute a day's flight.

"According to Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, Chairman of the Committee on Aeronautical Maps and Landing Places of the Aero Club of America, the Lincoln Highway was picked for the transcontinental flights because of its directness, it being the shortest land route, and because of the co-operation which the organization of Lincoln Highway Consuls, scattered in every city and town along the 3,400 mile course, could offer the aviators. Landing places will be selected along the trail, and it is expected that later signs and indicators which can be read by the air men while in flight will be erected along the course of the highway."

BARN RAISING

Many Enjoy Work and then the Bountiful Dinner.

One hundred and thirty men took part in the raising of the barn on the farm of J. B. Wineman, in Franklin township, on Friday. The oldest one to take part was Elder C. L. Pfoutz, of Highland township, 82 years old, who could be seen at the pike poles helping raise the long frames. Thirty women prepared the dinner which was served under the trees. The barn is to be 45 x 75 feet.

DANIEL LEISTER DIED SUDDENLY

Well Known Arendtsville Citizen Expires in the Arms of his Wife. Was for Many Years a Farmer in Butler Township.

DANIEL LEISTER

Daniel Leister, a highly respected citizen of Arendtsville, died suddenly at his home in that place Friday afternoon at 3:45. He complained of not feeling well during the morning, and after dinner returned from the barn, so ill that he could scarcely reach the house.

A physician was summoned and he was apparently recovering when he suddenly expired in the arms of his wife. Death was caused by acute indigestion.

He was almost a life long resident of the portion of the county in which he died. For twenty seven years he lived in Butler township on the farm now owned and occupied by Christian Guise, and for the last seven years he resided in Arendtsville. He was well and favorably known by a large circle of friends.

Mr. Leister was a faithful and devoted member of Zion's Reformed church where he was always found in his pew when health permitted. He was an active member of the Sunday School and much interested in a men's Bible class. He served the congregation most acceptably as elder and deacon.

Mr. Leister was aged 65 years, 6 months, and 22 days. He leaves his wife who, before marriage, was Miss Ellen Carey, and two sisters, Mrs. Samuel Gochnaur, of Bendersville, and Miss Mary Leister, of Stevens street, Gettysburg.

Funeral from his late home on Monday morning at ten o'clock, his pastor, Rev. T. C. Hesson, conducting the services. Interment in Fairview cemetery, Arendtsville.

Friends will accept this as an invitation to attend without further notice.

REV. FR. LAVIZERE

Funeral services were held on Monday with a Requiem High Mass at Germantown. His body was interred in the crypt under the High Altar.

APPEAL DEFENDS THE PRESIDENT

Bryan Urges German-Americans to Help Him.

TRY TO INFLUENCE KAISER

Declares Criticism of Wilson's Neutrality Is Unjust, as the Executive Has Been Fair Minded.

Washington, June 12.—Ex-Secretary Bryan issued a lengthy statement—the third since his retirement from office—on the situation created by the sinking of the Lusitania.

This statement is addressed to German-Americans, whose patriotism for the Stars and Stripes he says is unquestioned and whom he urges to use their influence with Germany not to do anything that would provoke war. It is their duty to help the president secure "peace with honor," the German-Americans are told.

Mr. Bryan pays tribute to President Wilson's neutrality in the present crisis and declares that much of the criticism leveled at the executive has been unjust.

The United States intends to make a firm stand against British interference with neutral commerce on the seas, Mr. Bryan declared. Among other things he says:

"Permit me to address a word to you as one American citizen speaking to fellow citizens in whose patriotism he has entire confidence. It is natural that in a contest between your Fatherland and other European nations your sympathies should be with the country of your birth. It is no cause for censure that this is true; it would be a reflection upon you if it were not true.

"The trouble is that the extremists on both sides have mistaken a natural attachment felt for birthplace for disloyalty to this country.

Deplores Hasty Criticism.

"The fact that the administration has received more criticism from German-Americans than from those in sympathy with the allies is due to the fact that while both sides are at liberty, under international law, to put chase ammunition in the United States, the allies, because of their control of the seas, have the advantage of being able to export it. It is unfortunate that partisan supporters of Germany should have overlooked the legal requirements of the situation and have thus misunderstood the position of the administration.

"The administration's position has not only been perfectly neutral, but it could not have been otherwise without a palpable and intentional violation of the rules governing neutrality. This government is not at liberty to change materially the rules of international law during the war, because every change suggested is discussed upon its merits as an abstract proposition, but according to the effect it will have upon the contest. Those who wanted to lay an embargo upon the shipments of arms defended their position on the ground that it would hasten peace, but it is strange that they could have overlooked the fact that the only way in which such action on our part could hasten peace would have been by helping one side to overcome the other.

"While the attacks made upon the president by the extremists on both sides were unjust, it was equally unjust to suspect the patriotism of those who took sides. I feel well enough acquainted with the European-born Americans to believe that in a war between this country and any European power the naturalized citizen from that country would be as quick to enlist as native-born citizens. As I am now speaking to German-Americans I am glad to repeat in public what I have often said in private, and would have said in public before, but for the fact that it would not have been proper for one in my official position to do so.

"What I have said in regard to the German-Americans is an introduction to an appeal which I feel it my duty to make to them.

Banish Criticism of President.

"If any of them have ever in a moment of passion or excitement suspected the president of lack of neutrality or lack of friendship toward the German government and the German people, let that thought be forgotten, never again to be recalled. I have, since my resignation, received numerous telegrams from German-American societies commending my action. I think the senders of these telegrams understand my position, but that no one may mistake it, let me restate it.

"The president is not only desirous of peace, but he hopes for it, and he has adopted the methods which he thinks most likely to contribute to ward peace.

"My difference from him is as to method, not as to purpose, and my utterances since resigning have been intended to crystallize public sentiment in support of his efforts to maintain peace, or, to use a familiar phrase, 'peace with honor.'

"My fear has been that the German government might, despairing of a friendly settlement, break off diplomatic relations, and thus create a condition out of which war might come.

Poor Man's Advantage.

"The sleep of the laboring man is sweet, whether he eat little or much; but the abundance of the rich will not suffer him to sleep.—Ecclesiastes, 5:12.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB.

Will Not Sell Big Steel Company to German Interests.

German interests won't get control of the Bethlehem Steel company and break the concern's contracts with the British for arms and ammunition. This was made known from an authoritative source. This same authority had no information that the same interests were seeking to obtain control of other companies. What blocks the attempts of the German agents, in the case of the Bethlehem Steel company, for one thing, is that the majority of the stock of the concern is not in the market. Contrary to rumors, Charles M. Schwab still owns the majority of the stock. This much Mr. Schwab emphatically confirmed. That he had no intention of selling he asserted just emphatically.

At the same time the information is authoritative that agents representing the German government or German interests have approached Mr. Schwab not once, but several times, since the beginning of the war, asking that negotiations be opened. It has been intimated that interests, private or government, were willing to pay any price that Mr. Schwab would name for his controlling interest.

without the intention of either country. I do not ask you to minimize the earnestness of the president's statement—that would be unfair, both to him and to Germany.

"The sinking of the Lusitania cannot be defended upon the facts as we understand them. The killing of innocent women and children cannot be justified, whether the killing is by drowning or starving; no nation can successfully plead the inhumanity of her enemies as an excuse for inhumanity on her own part. While it is true that cruelty is apt to beget cruelty, it cannot be said that 'like cures like.'

"Do not attempt to connect the negotiations which are going on between the United States and Germany with those between the United States and Great Britain. The cases are different, but even if they were the same, it would be necessary to treat with each nation separately."

BERLIN PLEASSED BY NOTE'S TONE

U. S. Communication Regarded as Conciliatory.

Berlin, June 12.—Ambassador Gerard presented the American note at the German foreign office yesterday afternoon.

The note is regarded in diplomatic circles in Berlin as decidedly conciliatory in tone, far more so than the first stories reaching Berlin by cablegram had led the foreign diplomats to expect.

The American communication, although printed in full and given the greatest prominence in the Berlin newspapers, was not accompanied by editorial comment.

The headlines of the newspapers varied in wording, but were similar in tone. Among the captions were: "America Stands Firm," "A Very Solemn Warning," "Grave American Warning to Germany" and "A Grave Appeal."

Eitel's Officer and Some Men Missing.

Washington, June 12.—Lieutenant Brauer and "certain men of the crew" of the German commerce raider, the Prinz Eitel Friedrich, who left the ship before she was formally interned, and have not returned at the Norfolk navy yard, are believed to have left the country. N. R. Hamilton, collector at Norfolk, made this report to the treasury department.

Proclaim Albanian Republic.

Rome, June 12.—The Albanian insurgents declared the country a republic. Albania has virtually been without a government since the war began. One of the objects of Italy in going to war was to secure territory on the Albanian coast. The advance of the Servians through Albania toward Durazzo continues.

German Prince Killed.

Berlin, June 12.—A Dresden dispatch announces the death of Prince Karl Ernest of Schoeburg-Waldenburg, who had been serving in the German army.

Hawaiian Sugar.

The quantity of sugar produced on an acre of land in Hawaii is greater than in any other spot on the globe. This is due to the wonderful irrigation system.

U. S. TROOPS MAY GO INTO MEXICO

Ready to Enforce President's Order Regarding Food.

RESISTANCE IS THREATENED

Both Factions Are Averse to Importation of Food Supplies For Starving People.

Washington, June 12.—Possible interference by local Mexican officials along the border with plans of the Red Cross to distribute through the American consular officers and its own agencies, food supplies to the famine-threatened Mexican people, is the reason for orders from the war department to delay the departure of three regiments from the border to the Philippines.

The American troops cannot cross the border without instructions from Washington, but in view of the possibility of resistance by the Mexican officials the war department intends to have at hand means to enforce any instructions that may be given by President Wilson.

The regiments affected are the Fifteenth cavalry, at Fort Bliss, Texas; the Twenty-seventh infantry at Galveston, and the Ninth Cavalry, at Douglas, Arizona.

Unofficial advices received at army headquarters in San Antonio were to the effect that neither Carranza nor Villa will guarantee safe transportation and delivery of food to the sufferers in Mexico City and other interior towns.

Advices also indicate a refusal on the part of the Carranzistas and the Villistas to permit the importation of food supplies from the United States.

The American consul at Juarez has been instructed to insist that no summary measures be taken by Mexican officials against George Marks and S. Franklin, under death sentence for alleged circulation of counterfeit money. The consul reports that the men, "presumably" Americans, have been found guilty by a military court. He was instructed to insist that the execution be stayed until the state department examined the evidence.

REFUGEES REACH VERA CRUZ

Five Hundred From Mexico City Put Aboard U. S. Transport.

Vera Cruz, Mex., June 12.—Five hundred foreigners, refugees from Mexico City, reached Vera Cruz on a special train under supervision of Arnold Shanklin, American consul general at Mexico City, and John S. Hutchinson, British consul at Vera Cruz. The trip was uneventful except for the death of an infant.

About one-third of the party was made up of Americans. The refugees reported that conditions in Mexico City were unchanged. On their arrival they were taken to the wharf to be put on the American transport Buford and taken to Galveston.

5000 HORSES RUN WILD

Animals Herded in Illinois For Allies Alarm Countryside.

Alton, Ill., June 12.—Five thousand horses intended for the British and French armies broke from a stockade at East Alton and overran the surrounding country.

The horses became frightened during an electrical storm and broke down the stout timbers and barbed wire of the inclosure. They overran the towns of East Alton, Benbow City and Wood River and caused much damage. They delayed two passenger trains, one the Chicago-bound train of the Chicago & Alton road and the other a Chicago & Eastern Illinois for St. Louis.

The headlight of the Alton train showed the horses on the right of way. Members of the train crew opened fire with revolvers, killing two of them.

For the rest of the night the horses galloped over the surrounding country, trampling down gardens and lawns and knocking down fences and killing young trees.

When dawn came the French and British army officers who have been at East St. Louis buying horses and stablesmen from the National Stock Yards began a roundup.

Paroled Prisoners Killed.

Pottsville, Pa., June 12.—Two men paroled from the Schuylkill county jail since the European war began have been killed in battle, according to information received by county officials. They are William Andokatis, of Tamaqua, who was killed in the Russian army at Pzenysl, and Joseph Crysluk, of Shenandoah, killed in the Austrian army.

His policy, M. Gounaris said, was to demand guarantees which would ensure the integrity of the kingdom and a successful outcome of its participation in the war.

Olive Oil in Nursery.

For a child who is emaciated from illness a massage with olive oil once or even twice a day will supply the needed fat to the body and also lubricate the dried-out skin. A teaspoonful of olive oil three times a day is a good tonic, good for digestion and a mild laxative when given to a baby, an hour before or after a feeding. It will also soothe a tickling cough. Olive oil is also healing for burns, chapped lips and hands.

Sleep.

PATRIOTS READY FOR GOOD WEEK

Williams and Bigler Join the Squad and Victories are Promised against Strong Nines which they will Meet Next Week.

There's a good time coming, according to Ira Plank and his Patriots who on Friday dropped their fourth straight game, this time to Martinsburg 8 to 1.

Benny Williams joined the team this morning and will take his usual place at short stop. Bigler, the Junia star, also reported for work. Stair is back in form after a week's rest, and the rest of the team are all going well with the exception of Lower who will take a week's rest, and Kelly who is suffering from a sore ankle.

Plank hopes and expects to take today's game with Martinsburg and to return home ready for a real campaign next week which will bring to Gettysburg a fine assortment of victories. Hagerstown, Frederick, and Hanover, he says, will find a more serious problem confronting them in the Patriots than they now believe.

About that Friday game there is little to say. Plank gave Herrell, a new pitcher, a try-out, and he was well tried, Martinsburg getting twelve hits off his delivery including a home run, a three base hit, and two baggers. He walked five. Gettysburg tallied five hits, one of which was a three bagger by Mahaffie. Stair is expected to pitch to-day.

WOMAN AS FIT AS MAN FOR SOLDIER

Dr. Dudley A. Sargent Concludes Sex Is No Handicap.

RATHER HE HOLDS IT A HELP

Harvard University Expert on Physical Training Declares His Experience of the Feats of Girls Proves That It Is Impossible to Set Limits to Their Endurance.

Women could be made as fit for military duty as men, in the opinion of Dr. Dudley A. Sargent of Harvard university, who has given more than half a century of study to the problem of physical training of young folk. He holds that sex is no handicap to military training and cites many examples of physical feats performed by women.

"Every day," said Dr. Sargent, "I am astonished at the physical and mental possibilities shown by young women yet in college and those who are already out in the world making good. Almost daily I find it necessary to revise my carefully worked out theories and formulas as to what young women can do until now I find it safest not to suggest the limits of their capabilities."

"In one of the sad stories that has just come to us of the terrible Lusitania tragedy we have accounts of several women who swam about for many hours until rescued. What they did any able bodied, well trained woman might have done. At the time of the sinking of the Empress of Ireland in the Gulf of St. Lawrence a child only ten years old swam and floated about in the water for several hours and seemed none the worse for her adventure."

Capable of Marvelous Endurance.
"All theories to the contrary, women are capable of marvelous endurance, and so on this score cannot be rated ineligible for training for military service. But in spite of the actual proof to support this contention, many persons will shake their heads and say that I am forgetting that women are the bearers of the race and that their penalty for physical hardships will be sure and far-reaching."

"Nature, in giving to her a special task—or privilege—has endowed her with the necessary bodily strength."

"Women's sex is not a handicap, either mental or physical, unless women chooses to make it one."

"The great stretches of Russia could show up countless stolid faced, big muscled, sturdy women, who plow fields, reap the crops, make the black bread and bear the children and who have never even heard that they are a weaker sex."

"There are in most of our large cities today foreign born women who are familiar to us chiefly as picturesque figures on the streets as they are homeward bound with a week's fuel balanced gracefully on their heads. They walk upright and easily, and the careful observer will note a sturdiness that will surprise him."

Better Equipped Than Man.
"Physiologically the healthy woman is better equipped by nature to withstand cold and exposure than the average man. Every one knows that in regions of severe climate men wear heavier clothing and more of it than women."

"To say that a woman's pride is keeping her warm as she sweeps up the street on a blistering zero day with open coat, thin shirt waist, exposed neck and thinly stockinged feet is not altogether true for nature is aiding her. She will, of course, suffer from unwise exposure, but not to the same degree that a man would."

"But the sad fact is that few of our American born women, the descendants of our early settlers, are trained up to even a moderate degree of bodily efficiency."

"An able-bodied woman who has undergone the same rigorous training that a soldier has should suffer no more serious consequences than he from forced marches in a pouring rain or a sleepless night in a trench."

"The type of modern woman who is a product of steam heated apartments, matinees, teas and ennui is fitted neither for motherhood nor for suffrage, to say nothing of tasks savoring of militarism. But a woman of this type is in a class by herself. To be sure, the class is rather large, but the women who compose it are not the ones who will shape the future either of our homes or of our nation's destinies."

"In a frame of mind that would be ludicrous if it were not pathetic these women shield themselves from physical exertion, accept headaches and other weaknesses as if they were a part of their heritage as women and resort to bridge and similar 'light' recreations."

BRIDE WEDS IN CAST.
Society Girl Won't Let Operation in Hospital Postpone Wedding.

Miss Sarah Penner George, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. George, well known in Baltimore society, declined to have her marriage to Dr. T. Grier Miller of Philadelphia postponed, and the ceremony was performed at her bedside in a private hospital.

The bride recently underwent a serious operation and was encased in a plaster cast while the ceremony was performed.

MAKES NEW JAWS OF WEDDING RINGS

German Dentist Works Marvels For Wounded Soldiers.

WOMEN GIVE UP THEIR GOLD

Faces Shattered by Bullets or Shrapnel Are Rebuilt at Dusseldorf From Precious Metal, With Shinbones and Pieces of Rib Taken From the Injured Men Themselves.

"You need not thank me for this. It long ago lost its significance," The "this" was a woman's wedding ring, worn and scratched.

The message, blurred and poorly written, and the ring, indicating some hidden tragedy that never will be revealed, were sent, says a dispatch from Dusseldorf, Germany, to the Chicago Daily News, to Dr. Christian Bruhn, one of Germany's most distinguished dental surgeons, for the furtherance of his work—the patching up of soldiers whose jaws have been shot away.

The patching up process requires much gold. Dr. Bruhn's clinic is free, one so far unsupported from any official source. As his fame has gone out over Germany, however, his gold reserve has increased amazingly.

A famous actress has given a heavy medallion, the gift of the ruler of a German state. A noted litterateur has donated a similar gift from the king of Sweden. Wedding rings, seal rings, necklaces, gold coins from England and from Turkey, even old gold teeth, are pouring in on Dr. Bruhn, to be melted up and find their way into the mouths of wounded soldiers.

Soldiers Made New Again.

The orthopedic institutions, where the soldiers are made new again, so that they may go back to the front, are depressing. But they cannot compare for sheer horror with the great institution in Dusseldorf where scores of men, with half of their faces left, sit or lie in a steel framework that supports a broken jaw until newly inserted bones shall have had time to knit.

The Dusseldorf institution is devoted exclusively to the care of soldiers who have been injured in the jaws and is the largest of its kind in Germany. Weekly it is turning out men who, aside from scars and somewhat impeded speech, are about as good as before the war, men who a few weeks or months before were brought in in such condition that the layman, if he could endure to gaze for long, would despair of their ever being saved.

The patients frequently are found to have rifle bullets imbedded in the bones of their jaws, bullets often that have been flattened out or twisted by the impact against the bone. More serious are the shrapnel and grenade wounds, which tear away whole sections of the face.

Each Supplies Own Bone.

Through use of the X ray the patient's exact injury is established. In a majority of cases there is some part of bone missing—a part that must be replaced by gold or by bone from some part of his body. Each patient is his own bone supply, so to speak, and generally it is the shinbone that serves. The ribs also are a fertile field. So fast does nature work that the piece of bone taken out for use in the jaw is replaced rapidly by new growth.

One patient in the hospital slowly recovering from a wound that gouged out his whole jaw has a strip of shinbone in his mouth. On top of that is a new set of serviceable teeth. The man is healthy and reasonably happy. In dozens of cases it is not only necessary to replace bone, but skin as well. Here again each man must supply his own. Great strips of skin are taken from the patient's arms and grafted on to cheeks or chins. Aside from the scar along the line of stitching there is usually little indication of the original injury.

Each man is photographed on the day of arrival and at intervals as his recovery progresses. To the layman the results accomplished are little short of miraculous. It is almost incredible that so much can be accomplished.

URGE AMERICANIZATION DAY.

Mayors Indorse Welcome to New Citizens on July 4.

The mayors of 250 cities in New York state, in session at Troy, adopted a resolution indorsing the movement to be made the coming Fourth of July a day on which newly naturalized citizens shall be guests of honor. They urged all other cities in the state to follow suit in appointing committees to arrange for citizenship receptions and rallies.

More than fifty other cities throughout the country have now keenly taken up the idea.

Where Parents Lack.

If there were better team work at home, a daughter would grow up to become a wife that only the idiot would desert, and the son would become a husband that a wife would cling to till kingdom come. ## SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Hall Bonistelle, artist-photographer, preparing for the day's work in his studio, is reminded by Floide Fisher, his assistant, of a party he is to give in the studio that night, and warned that his business is in bad financial shape.

CHAPTER II—Mrs. Royaton, artist-photographer, preparing for the day's work in her studio, is reminded by Floide Fisher, her assistant, of a party he is to give in the studio that night, and warned that his business is in bad financial shape.

CHAPTER III—Mrs. Royaton calls at the studio and Hall asks her to marry him at once. She spurs for time, but finally agrees to give him an answer at the party that night.

CHAPTER IV—Miss Carolyn Dallys calls and Hall proposes to her. She agrees to give him an answer at the party.

CHAPTER V—Rosamund Gale, artist-photographer, preparing for the day's work in her studio, is reminded by Floide Fisher, her assistant, of a party he is to give in the studio that night, and warned that his business is in bad financial shape.

CHAPTER VI—Floide tries to show Hall a certain way out of the mixup, but he is obtuse. Jonas Hassingbury, heir to the millions in case Hall fails to marry on time, plots with Floide to block Hall's marriage to any of the three women before midnight.

CHAPTER VII—Floide arranges to have Hall's three intendeds meet at the studio as if by chance. Carolyn and Rosamund come in first and compare notes. They think Hall is perhaps going crazy.

Rosamund, meanwhile, was staring at the prototype of the portrait which had started the discussion of Hall's intimacies. Carolyn, noticing, introduced her. Rosamund, however, did not interest Rona Royaton so much as did Carolyn herself.

"Where is Mr. Bonistelle?" she asked.

"Oh, he's out—as usual," said Carolyn. "I expect Miss Fisher will attend to you, though."

Mrs. Royaton shrugged her shoulders. "Miss Fisher will hardly do for what I want," she said. "I'm afraid I'll have to see Mr. Bonistelle himself."

Rosamund frowned, but Carolyn only raised her eyebrows.

"Oh, well, I expect Hall will be back before long," said Carolyn.

Mrs. Royaton, placid as a cow, eyed her for a moment, then remarked slowly, meditating, "You call him Hall, don't you? I hadn't known you were so intimate."

"Oh, Lord, yes. I always call him Hall," Carolyn was beginning to be amused.

Rosamund tossed her head and crossed her feet, watching the newcomer sharply.

"Well," said Mrs. Royaton, primly, "I'm delighted that you know him so well, my dear!"

"Well, now I come to think of it, Rona, I don't know that I do know him quite so well as I thought, after all," she exchanged a smile with Rosamund, who laughed aloud, harshly, causing Mrs. Royaton to turn and stare at her.

"I'm afraid I fail to see the joke," she said haughtily. "But of course Hall Bonistelle isn't at all the sort of man one sees through at a glance, you know. He's deep; a very subtle person, in fact. However," she smiled complacently, "I flatter myself that I understand him a little better than I did."

Carolyn shot her a suspicious glance. "Why?" she demanded. "Made any recent discoveries?"

Mrs. Royaton deliberately nodded up and down, and smiled cryptically.

"Oh, I don't know—I fancy he has something on his mind—in fact, I know he has—there's a—well, a sort of crisis—yes, I suppose he would appear a little excited—but of course I really have no business discussing it."

"What in the world are you talking about, Rona?" Carolyn exclaimed.

"Why, I'm talking about Hall Bonistelle, of course!"

"Well, you're not saying much."

"Never mind, Carolyn, dear, it isn't because I haven't anything to say! You don't expect me to go about repeating things he has said to me in confidence, do you?"

"Oh!" said Carolyn, narrowing her eyes, "then Hall has been confiding in you, too, has he?"

By this time Rosamund was hard on the scent, having almost caught up to Carolyn's suspicions. She said nothing, but her eyes were hot and shining, as she scrutinized Mrs. Royaton's face.

"See here," said Carolyn, now thoroughly interested. "I don't see why I haven't a right to know. I'm a pretty good friend of Hall's—you know that—and I think you ought to be able to trust me."

"Well, it isn't only trusting you—Mrs. Royaton looked significantly at Rosamund, sulkily listening.

"Well, I declare!" said Carolyn calmly. "Rena Royaton, either you're making an awful fool of yourself, or else Hall Bonistelle has actually—"

She got no further. Floide, head up, with a busy air, bustled into the room, carrying a handful of prints. She stopped suddenly, with a fine imitation of surprise, and gazed at Mrs. Royaton.

"Oh, Mrs. Royaton!" she exclaimed. "Why didn't you let me know you were here? I've got your proofs all ready for you. I think they are splendid!"

long." She returned to Mrs. Royaton. "Oh, how I dread to look at them!" that lady was saying. She was, nevertheless, perusing them hungrily.

Carolyn meanwhile had stridden across the room to Rosamund, and the two girls conspired as Mrs. Royaton lost herself in her portraits.

"Oh, I don't like that one—Really? . . . Why, I look a hundred years old! . . . There! That's more like me. . . . Which one do you like best, Miss Fisher? . . . No, do you? Why, I think it's awful. My eyes are so hard to take right; you don't get the soul in them, somehow. . . . Oh, I think I ought to try another sitting, don't you? . . . Say, where is Mr. Bonistelle, anyway?"

There came a ring at the telephone. Floide jumped to snatch up the receiver.

"Hello! . . . Yes . . . Why, what's the matter? . . . Oh, naturally . . . Wait just a minute, please!"

Floide stopped and held her hand over the transmitter. "Oh, Miss Dallys, would you and Miss Gale mind not talking quite so loud for a minute? I can't hear very well."

There was a long pause, and the three women, all studying Floide's face, saw a dozen different expressions pass over it in quick succession. Then she spoke again: "Really? Oh, you know, Mr. Bonistelle—well, personally, I loathe them. . . . Oh, I don't know, but a big diamond is so funny, somehow. . . . What? Then: 'Oh, yes, well, I know. . . . Oh, but it's awful to pawn that! Why, it was your father's, wasn't it? . . . Well, of course you know best. . . . Oh, didn't you? Well, I might send it by the janitor. . . . where did you leave it? . . . When will you be here? . . . All right, good-by!"

Mrs. Royaton and Rosamund still sat as if entranced, but Carolyn Dallys rose impatiently now, and glanced about, as if in search of an excuse. The room was tensely charged with electricity. It was evident that in another minute the explosion must come. But, first, how to get rid of this important, busy little Miss Fisher?

Floide herself answered the unvoiced question. Wasn't she as desirous as any of them to bring the thing to a head? Yes; so she must fly and leave the field of battle clear. Still smiling, she disappeared into the stockroom. She left the door ajar.

Mrs. Royaton rose, with a self-conscious smile. "Well, Carolyn," she said, "I suppose I'll have to tell you, now. It is most unfortunate that Miss Fisher wasn't more discreet in her conversation. But so long as she has let the cat out of the bag, I might as well inform you that the ring she was talking to Hall about is for this finger!" She held up her left hand, her thumb pointing to her third finger.

Carolyn, with a whoop, fell into Rosamund's arms, and the two laughed until they cried.

Mrs. Royaton stared as if they had suddenly gone mad. Then she exclaimed angrily, "I'd like to know what there is to laugh at! I don't see anything particularly amusing in the fact that I'm going to marry Hall Bonistelle!"

"Oh, don't you?" Carolyn gurgled. "Miss Gale, do you see anything funny in it?"

"Funny! It's a scream!" Rosamund shouted with mirth. "Who'll be the next one?"

"Oh, the more the merrier!" cried Carolyn.

Rena Royaton drew herself up proudly. "I think you're exceedingly impertinent!" she replied.

Carolyn dried her eyes on a lace handkerchief. "Rena," she said, still giggling, "I don't know whether it's too true to be funny, or too funny to be true. But you ought to be in on this joke, really, my dear. It will interest you strangely!"

"Well, I don't call it a joke. It's an outrage!" cried Rosamund.

"Say, Miss Gale," Carolyn turned confidentially, "d'you know, we ought really to form a society of the survivors, you know. Rena's the oldest, and we'll elect her president!"

Mrs. Royaton stared from one to the other, her temper rising. Finally she remarked cuttingly, "I must say, Carolyn, I always thought you were a lady!" and she walked swiftly toward the door.

"Oh, don't go yet!" Carolyn called out. "You've got a laugh coming to you, too, Rena. You haven't heard our news, yet!"

Mrs. Royaton trembled on the threshold. "Your news? What d'you mean?"

"Listen here," said Rosamund, walking over to her coolly. "Hall Bonistelle proposed to Miss Dallys at ten-thirty this morning and he proposed to me at a quarter to eleven. Now, what time did he propose to you?"

Mrs. Royaton put out a hand trembling with appeal. "Carolyn!" she implored.

Carolyn nodded unsympathetically. Mrs. Royaton dropped into a chair, speechless, and burst into tears. Carolyn walked up to her and laid a hand on the heaving purple shoulder. "Brace up!" she said. "It won't hurt but a minute! See here, Rena, were you carried off your feet by his wild wooing, or did you take notice of the time?"

"Why—here this morning, Carolyn," Mrs. Royaton sobbed. "I left just before you came. It was—it was before that." Her tears poured forth afresh.

Carolyn nodded to Rosamund. "Make it ten-fifteen, then. I expect he proposes every quarter of an hour, rain or shine."

"But I don't see," said Rosamund, "if she accepted him, why he ever proposed to us!"

Mrs. Royaton looked up through big teary eyes. "Why," she said faintly, "you see, well, I didn't give him a definite answer, really. That is, not exactly—I said—"

"She said she'd tell him later!" the two girls cried in unison, as if they had rehearsed it. "Tonight!" Rosamund added, and Carolyn, "Didn't you, now, Rena?"

Mrs. Royaton nodded tremulously. "How did you know?"

"Oh!" Carolyn shouted, "how did I know! Oh, I know, all right!" She drew a kiss to Rosamund. "You see, she said she'd tell him later!"

"Hello! . . . Yes . . . Why, What's the Matter?"

couldn't quite believe him, and so you couldn't decide. And you're to give him your answer tonight when you come to his unnatural old party! Is that right?"

"Well, he must have wanted me most, anyway," said Rena, drying her tears. "He proposed to me first!"

Carolyn held up her hand. "Second thoughts are always best! Meaning—me!"

"He changed his mind, though," Rosamund protested. "He proposed to me last!"

Carolyn grinned at her. "Why, he might just as well have counted us out, like playing tag to see who's it!" She pointed to each in turn, calling out, "My—mother—told—me—to—take—this—one!" The last was Rosamund.

"No, thanks!" Rosamund resumed. "I don't intend to be it!" She dropped her voice a little, glancing at the door. "Why, you ought to hear what Miss Fisher has been telling me about the business here! Why, it seems Mr. Bonistelle's awfully hard up—barely paying expenses—all sorts of unpaid bills piling up, too. He may have to move over to Sixth avenue, even! Hasn't he got a nerve, though?"

Mrs. Royaton rose like a Spartan, determined, hard. "Girls, I know what I'm going to do! I intend to tell him just what I think of him, and send him packing!"

"There!" Carolyn interposed. "Now, you're talking, Rena! Let's get down to business, and decide what to do. We're all in the same fix and we must hold together."

"Yes, we ought to take a stand," Rena agreed.

"And Hall ought to take a tumble!" from Rosamund.

"See here, let's do this thing according to Hoyle," said Carolyn, taking the lead with all her humor. "First thing is, are we one and all agreed to reject him tonight?"

"Yes!" Mrs. Royaton and Rosamund came in chorus.

"Well, then," said Carolyn, "I promise, as well, hope to die!" She crossed herself. "Now, this is a serious thing, ladies. No one of us can go back on our word. It must be one—two—three—and out for H. Bonistelle. Well, that's agreed. Now for the details—"

"Oh, I simply can't wait to tell him!" exclaimed Mrs. Royaton. "I hate the man!"

"So do I!" growled Rosamund. "I think he ought to be horsewhipped!"

"Well," said Carolyn, "I must say I agree with you both. I consider Hall Bonistelle is a perfectly conceived and admirably rendered cad!"

At this moment the door swung open and, humming a jolly tune, in walked Hall Bonistelle. There was a trio of "Oh's!" in soprano, mezzo-soprano and contralto as the ladies caught sight of him.

Making Money Go a Long Way.

National advertisers are some times persuaded that they can make their "money go farther" if they do not use newspapers.

Frequently they make it go so far THAT IT NEVER COMES BACK.

Newspaper advertising on the other hand brings immediate, definite returns—returns that can be weighed and measured.

The returns directly sell the goods, they enthuse the dealers, they pay the advertisers.

National advertisers need newspapers.

RUSSIANS CHECK GERMAN ADVANCE

Muscovites Offer Obstinate Resistance to Foe.

CLAIM PROGRESS IN NORTH

The Austro-Germans Are Driven Across the Dniester River and 6700 Men Captured.

Petrograd, June 12.—An official announcement from army headquarters recites a Russian success on the river Dniester.

After hard fighting the Russians took from their antagonists seventeen cannon and forty-nine guns, and captured approximately 6700 officers and men.

The text of the communication follows:

"By heroic efforts our troops on Thursday repulsed on the right bank of the river Dniester great forces of the enemy who had crossed near Zarnawa, east of Stryj. On the front from Julawa to Siewki the enemy sustained great losses. After a hard fight we captured seventeen cannon and forty-nine machine guns and took prisoners 188 officers and 6500 men. Among the prisoners is one entire company of the Prussian fusilier guards.

"We successfully repulsed German attacks on June 8 and 9 on an extended front in the Saviel region.

"In Galicia the enemy attacked with strong forces our positions protecting Molska (thirty-seven miles southwest of Lemberg). The attack was opened with an extremely active artillery fire. Employing asphyxiating shells after a three hours' cannonade, the enemy sent masses of infantry to the assault. These troops reached our wire entanglements, but there their advance was arrested. The following morning the enemy, suffering still heavier losses, was repulsed a distance of 2000 paces from our trench line.

The German attempt to move upon Lemberg is being continued energetically from the direction of Przemyśl and the Dniester river. The movements of these two forces are being widely separated by the Dniester; the marches have an almost separate character although the same objective.

The bulk of the Austro-German troops are concentrated to the east of Przemyśl with a view to marching on Lemberg in a direct line from the west, but the persistent violence of the German assault from the Dniester gives this movement equal importance. It is estimated that twenty army corps (800,000 men) are operating in the former district and nine (360,000 men) in the latter.

Russians Win in Caucasus.

Petrograd, June 12.—Including a long statement on the Russian operations in the Caucasus, the general staff says:

"By the 6th of June we had captured the vast region of Van and part of the Sanjak of Moush. We had annihilated Khalil Bey's original corps and we had cleared of Turkish troops the whole region between Van and Ourza.

"On the right wing we occupied Turkish territory between the old frontier and the line of the rivers Chorokh and Tortun and the mountain range of Tchakhr Baba.

KILLS FIANCEE, ENDS LIFE

Scion of Swedish Nobility Slays Sweetheart and Commits Suicide.

New York, June 12.—Frederick J. Hussenius, said to be a member of a Swedish noble family, but estranged from his relatives, shot and killed his fiancée, Anna Malmquest, a young music teacher, in Central Park, and then sent a bullet into his own brain causing death.

A park policeman, who heard three shots, found the couple clasped in each other's arms. The pistol was in Hussenius' hand.

Friends of the man told the police he was a graduate of the University of Stockholm, and the son of a nobleman. They said a quarrel with his family resulted in his coming to this country and accepting a position as bookkeeper.

PLOEKEN CAPTURED, IMPERILS AUSTRIANS

Italian Wedge Threatens to Cut Enemy's Lines.

Paris, June 12.—The Italian forces have captured Ploeken, fifteen miles south of the main highway, between Innsbruck and Laibach, according to a dispatch brought by courier from Innsbruck.

The capture of the place is an important one for the invading forces, as it threatens the communications between Innsbruck and Laibach, the capital of Carniola, where the Archduke Eugene, the new Austrian commander, is concentrating his forces to meet the invaders.

Italian forces are also advancing through the Predil pass on the junction of the Laibach railway at Travis, which lies about six miles on the Austrian side of the Italian border.

The Italians now within sight of Trieste are preparing to launch an attack over the sixteen miles that separates the Austrian town of Monfalcone, just taken by King Victor Emmanuel's forces, and the city whose capture is one of the main objectives of the Italian campaign.

Sofia Is Promised Ottoman Territory to Remain Neutral.

Paris, June 12.—It is stated on high diplomatic authority that Bulgaria and Turkey have entered into negotiations as the result of which Turkey is expected to cede territory along the Deagatch railway to Bulgaria in consideration for continued Bulgarian neutrality.

Allies Warn Rumanians.

Rome, June 12.—It is reported here on good authority that the ministers of the allies at Bucharest have presented a note to the Rumanian government calling on it to courteous but firm tones to define its attitude toward the allies and the central powers. Despite its courteous tone, the note has the character of an ultimatum.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

COOKING CAULIFLOWER.

FOLLOWING are some cauliflower recipes that may appeal because of their departure from the usual cauliflower preparations:

Scalloped Cauliflower.—Carefully clean the cauliflower and soak in cold salt water for thirty minutes. Plunge in boiling water and cook for twenty minutes. Do not boil briskly; let the water just bubble all the time. Drain off the water, grease a baking dish, line with a layer of cauliflower, add a layer of toasted bread crumbs, another of cauliflower, and so on alternately, letting the top layer be of bread crumbs. Over all pour a cup of boiling milk, dot the top with butter and bake in a moderate oven for twenty minutes.

Spanish Cauliflower.—Finely chop one medium size onion and a small bunch of parsley. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a pan and fry the onion until it is brown. Season with celery salt. Blend in one tablespoonful of flour, add a cupful of boiling water and let simmer for half an hour. Carefully clean the cauliflower and boil for half an hour. Drain the onion sauce, add three tablespoonfuls of tomato catsup, drain the cauliflower, turn into a baking pan, pour over the sauce, place in a moderate oven for five minutes and serve hot.

Cauliflower Croquettes.—Finely chop cold cooked cauliflower, mix in one small, finely chopped onion, one small bunch of parsley finely chopped, one-half cupful of bread crumbs and one well beaten egg. Carefully mix and mold into croquette forms, dip in cracked dust and fry in deep, smoking fat until a light brown.

A Delicious Concoction.

Apple gelatin is a delicious concoction that is very seldom tried, although its cheapness and the simple preparation entitle it to a place on the weekly menu. Stew apples until tender enough to be pierced with a straw. Sweeten and flavor with lemon, nutmeg, vanilla or cinnamon. While they still retain their shape place them in a mold. Add enough water to make a pint, add to the sirup half a package of granulated gelatin which has been previously dissolved in cold water and pour over the apples. When hardened serve with custard or vanilla sauce or whipped cream.

Anna Thompson.

The Almanac Church.

One of the oddest churches in England is St. Botolph's at Boston. It has aptly been called the Almanac church. In the tower are 365 steps, corresponding to the days in the year. The church has twelve pillars, fifty-two windows and seven doors, representing the months, weeks and days in the week. In the west porch are twenty-four steps ascending to the library, representing the hours of the day. Again, on each side of the choir are sixty steps leading to the roof, denoting on the one side the minutes of the hour and on the other the seconds of the minute.—Boston Post.

The Office Seeker.

A man with a deep and steadfast longing for office will run excitedly around begging everybody he sees to sign his nomination petitions and then, when he finally gets enough signatures, will put on a clean shirt and announce that if the call of duty comes he will not disregard the summons.—Ohio State Journal.

Flies and Germs.

The number of germs on a single fly may range from 550 to 6,000,000. Scientific tests have shown that the average for 414 flies was about 1,250,000 on each.

"All Cats look grey—at Night!"

"JUST Rubber and Canvas—pumped full of air!"

So thinks the Tire User who buys Pneumatics "Blind," without comparison after thorough investigation.

So thinks the Car Owner who buys from the Cut Price Dealer, the "just as good" Tire on which that Dealer quotes him the biggest discount off a Price List specially printed up for that purpose.

So thinks the Man whose Tire bill averages nearly half of his entire Season's running Expense, when it does not average one-fourth, if he would only "Work his head" and, once for all, learn the Tire Game.

THERE are Car Owners who regularly get 25% to 50% MORE Mileage per Dollar invested in Tires, than do the Owners of other Cars driven with equal care, under equivalent road conditions.

The latter type of Owner is apt to conclude offhand (from his own experience) that all Tires must be Short-lived and Unsatisfactory.

Now this is to tell him that there is as much difference between the Mileage and Resilience of different brands of Tires, when the facts are investigated, and proven through actual Service, as there is difference between the Color of Cats—when viewed by Daylight.

This is to inform him that three Rubber Factories using precisely the same quantity and quality of Materials might, and sometimes do, produce (through the difference in their Rubber EXPERIENCE and efficiency methods) Tires of such widely different Mileage Results as to average 3000 Miles, 4000 Miles, and 5000 Miles respectively—under parallel road conditions.

COST of production is therefore no sure guide to the Mileage and Resilience which can be put into such a subtle and "temperamental" product as the Rubber in a Pneumatic Tire.

And, though The B. F. Goodrich Co. can, and does, put the most Mileage per Dollar invested by the User, into Goodrich Safety-Tread Tires, they do not interpret this as a reason why they should charge a higher price, to include an Insurance Premium which would place their "Adjustment Basis" beyond the safe and reasonable minimum that Bad Roads and Careless Driving make necessary.

Because of its Manufacturing Advantages, its Precision Methods, and Waste-reducing Processes (resulting from its 45 years' EXPERIENCE in the working of Rubber), The B. F. Goodrich Co. can afford to and does, offer the greatest Mileage in Tires at the lowest price per Mile.

It sells the standard grade of Goodrich Safety Tires at 10% to 30% lower prices than other non-skid brands which "Guarantee" greater Mileage but cannot prove delivery of greater Mileage in actual use.

Why pay MORE for any Tire?

THE OLD MASTERS.

Paintings Without Signatures Are Judged by Their Technic.

It appears that many of the works of the old masters are not signed. Experts rarely rely on signatures alone in determining the authenticity of an old work, but trust rather to their knowledge of the painter's technic, says the Philadelphia Record.

False signatures can be easily detected. Spirits of wine or turpentine will usually remove a name of later date than the painting. In the course of time signatures often become very difficult to find. Painted originally in a shade slightly lighter than the ground, perhaps, they sink in, darken, and merge into the ground color or they are almost rubbed away by successive cleanings. Recognizable one day in a specially favorable light, they may not be visible again for weeks.

Experts speak of "will-o'-the-wisp" signatures, and many collectors have encountered accidental strokes and cracks that tantalizingly suggest a signature, though it can never be made definite. On the other hand, there have been remarkable cases of such marks, after careful study, resolving themselves into a famous name.

Sometimes the painter's name is most conspicuous as, for example, in Raphael's "Sposalizio" at Milan. Proud of having surpassed his master, the youthful genius wrote on a frieze in the very center of the canvas, "Raphael Urbinas."

Reynolds hardly ever signed his work. But upon the completion of the portrait of Mrs. Siddons as the Tragic Muse, he wrote his name large on the gold embroidery of her dress. He was unable, he said, "to resist the temptation of sending my name to posterity on the hem of your garment."

CANCER IN THE FAMILY.

There is No Proof That the Dreaded Disease is Hereditary.

Perhaps nothing causes more needless worry than the fact that one or more persons in a given family have died from cancer. This is commonly taken as a proof that the disease is hereditary. This does not at all follow. There is probably no greater chance of inheriting cancer than there is of being killed by lightning or of breaking one's neck falling downstairs. Perhaps there are people who worry even about those contingencies, but the statisticians have shown that such fatal accidents are extremely rare.

People who are concerned because their relatives have succumbed to cancer fail to consider how widespread the disease is. A malady that causes one death out of every eight among women and one out of every fourteen among men over forty is fairly common. On this basis it does not take much arithmetic to figure out how likely it is that cancer will occur many times in some families.

The eminent statisticians, King and Newsholme, have pointed out that it does not prove heredity to show that in one family five deaths occurred from cancer. By the very frequency of the disease and the laws of chance such cases would be expected even if no one had ever suggested the idea of heredity.

In some species of animals it is believed a certain susceptibility to tumors may be inherited. But so far as human beings are concerned the foremost authorities believe that heredity in cancer may be regarded as a negligible factor.—Journal of the American Medical Association.
